Get the Endicott Experiential Edge

Nothing demonstrates our “will do” promise more than our pioneering internship program, the Endicott Experiential Edge.

As the first school in the country to require three internships for every student, our program gives you opportunities to learn about your career interests as early as your first year. It equips you with essential real-world experience that brings context and meaning to your academic journey.

These internships give you a head start on your future and an edge in the competitive job market. We call this the Endicott Experiential Edge. You will build your resume and gain confidence in your field of study so you are prepared and ready to land your first job after graduation.

You will also be supported by our top-notch Internship & Career Center, whose priority is to see our students shine. From networking events and career fairs to mentor programs and resume guidance, our Gulls are surrounded by opportunities to network and connect. This is what you will do at the Nest.

"I have only had positive experiences with the faculty at Endicott, everyone is looking out for you and wants you to succeed."

Our students regularly tell us that here, they're not just a number or a person in the crowd—the professors actually know their names.

With an average of 16 students per class, Endicott's smaller class sizes allow you to make more personal connections with professors and peers. Our supportive, knowledgeable, and approachable faculty are invested in seeing students succeed. Many are world-renowned scholars, award-winning authors, practicing artists, and sought-after leaders who work in their fields and practice what they teach.

Faculty Snapshots

Anna McAlister, Ph.D.

Professor / Curtis L. Gerrish School of Business

Favorite class you teach: BUS370 Business Analysis & Research. I love introducing students to research methods. The class is very “hands on,” and I enjoy helping students see that research can actually be a lot of fun.

Favorite show: For entertainment: Schitt’s Creek / For education: Gruen

Listening to: Platino music (Bad Bunny, J Balvin, Myke Towers, etc.)

Little known fact about yourself: I love indoor plants. Monstera are my favorite.

“I love Endicott students’ openness. They are typically pretty open and willing to talk about their fears, their ambitions, challenges they’re experiencing, etc. I love when students stop into my office just to hang out and chat. They keep me feeling young.”

Todd Wemmer, Ph.D.

Professor / School of Social Sciences, Communication, & Humanities

Favorite class you teach: All of them. Especially audio storytelling classes.

Favorite show: Andor

Listening to: Cocteau Twins, Slowdive, My Bloody Valentine, Beach House, The Cure, Fever Ray, Prince

Little known fact about yourself: I grew up in Georgia.

“Endicott students are goofy, friendly, and smart.”

Bethany Nasser, Ph.D., RN, CNE

Associate Professor / Cummings School of Nursing & Health Sciences

Favorite class you teach: NU420 NCLEX Preparation, which supports senior nursing students preparing for their licensure exam. Guiding them through this critical phase is deeply fulfilling. I feel such pride when students share they’ve passed the exam.

Favorite show: Call the Midwife

Listening to: Audiobook: The Emperor of All Maladies: A Biography of Cancer by Dr. Siddhartha Mukherjee / Music: Fleetwood Mac & Bruce Springsteen

Little known fact about yourself: I parasailed 10,450 feet in Jackson Hole, Wyoming last summer to ring in my 60th birthday.

“What I appreciate most about Endicott nursing students is their honesty, enthusiasm, and strong sense of community. They consistently support one another as part of what we proudly call the Gull family.”

Dina Gentile, Ed.D.

Distinguished Professor, Sport Management & Esports Management / School of Sport Science

Favorite class you teach: SM215 Organization & Administration of Sport

Favorite show: Running Point, Ted Lasso

Listening to: Audiobook: Night Road / Music: Kelly Clarkson—all of her cover songs / Taylor Swift (on repeat) and Gigi Perez

Little known fact about yourself: I lived in Italy every summer from elementary school through ninth grade, and my parents spoke English and Italian at home. I am the first in my family to attend college.

“Endicott students want to learn, they know they have a career pathway ahead of them because of our courses and internships so they are built with intrinsic motivation from day one. There is not a one-size-fits-all Endicott student. Everyone is unique! That’s what makes our classroom environment energized!”

Luke Reynolds, Ph.D.

Associate Professor / School of Education

Favorite class you teach: That’s like asking me to pick my favorite son! Just can’t do it!

Favorite show: Parenthood

Listening to: Bruce Springsteen and Lady Smith Black Mombazo

Little known fact about yourself: I am a drummer.

“I love that Endicott students are willing to take action, get out of their seats, and try things—to learn by doing!”

Juan Carlos Morales, MFA

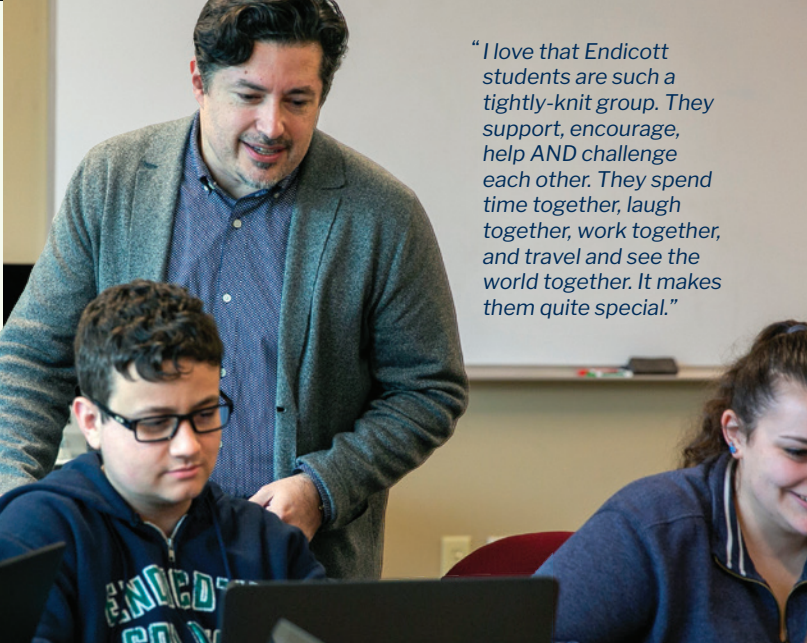

Associate Professor of Graphic Design / School of Visual & Performing Arts

Favorite class you teach: GD361 Junior Graphic Design Studio II because of the variety of projects that take students in and out of the classroom while practicing everything they’ve learned at Endicott.

Favorite show: Foundation, Silo, Rick and Morty

Listening to: Working: Hani Rani / Winding down: Olafur Arnalds / Winding up: LCD Soundsystem / Driving: Led Zeppelin

Little known fact about yourself: Growing up, I wanted to be a National Geographic photographer or an architect, so I studied marketing and fell into being a graphic designer.

“I love that Endicott students are such a tightly-knit group. They support, encourage, help AND challenge each other. They spend time together, laugh together, work together, and travel and see the world together. It makes them quite special.”

Mike Diehl, Ph.D.

Professor of Math & Computer Science / School of Science & Technology

Favorite class you teach: MTH330 Ordinary Differential Equations

Favorite show: Classic show: Seinfeld / Current show: Adults

Listening to: WERS—an excellent mix of new and older music

Little known fact about yourself: I’ve bowled two perfect 300 games.
